

TC

TEMPLE COLLEGE

BUSINESS AND COMMUNITY EDUCATION

In partnership with

FranklinCovey

we enable greatness

presents

Today's workforce consists of at least four generations, each bringing their own set of values and perspectives on the world of work. Do you need some tips for leading the many individuals who report to you? Are you having challenges as you work to build trust among your team?

This full day workshop, led by FranklinCovey senior consultant Mark Murphy, consists of two modules: Inspiring Trust and Leading Across Generations. By participating, you'll:

- understand the connection between trust and business results
- learn the behaviors that build, restore, extend and maintain trust
- increase your influence through greater trust and trustworthiness
- learn how to leverage the differences between generations
- resolve the "points of friction" that inevitably occur between generations' differing perspectives, styles and expectations, and
- motivate team members to volunteer their greatest contribution by engaging the whole person and giving space for generational differences to exist.

Temple College does not discriminate on the basis of gender, disability, race, color, age, religion, national origin or veteran status.

Leading and Inspiring Trust

Across Generations

Tuesday, April 28
8am–5pm

Register by April 14
254.298.8616 or 8625

www.templejc.edu

Fee: $265

(includes all materials & lunch)